

Every music sheet has its own emotions. When I was learning to play each piece of music, I tried to feel the ups and downs of each paragraph with my heart. Even for the same piece of music, the longer you practice, the more you can discover new differences. I like studying in music school because every day there are new discoveries and happiness.