

Lou Grüne-Yanoff is a 17 year old oboist from Stockholm, Sweden. She started playing oboe at the age of 10 and currently studies at Lilla Akademien with Daniel Burstedt and Emmanuel Laville, the principal oboist of the Stockholm Radio Symphony Orchestra. Lou has competed in and won 1st prize in both Stockholm International Music Competition and Jugend Musiziert, Germanys biggest youth music competition. She has also been awarded a stipend for her musical achievement by Lars och Ruby Ullmans stiftelse. She has played with a number of different orchestras, including Stockholms ungdomssymfoniker and has played alongside members of the O/modernt chamber orchestra. Lou has been selected to take part in a number of music programs and courses including Polstjärnekursen and Philadelphia International Music Festival, where she was chosen to play master classes with members of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra.