

Lena Maciag

Lena Maciag, born in 2011 in Warsaw, is an exceptionally talented and promising violinist who began her musical journey at the age of 6. From a young age, she has been honing her skills under the careful guidance of Professor Paweł Radziński at the renowned Music State School in Warsaw, Poland. Her passion and dedication have yielded remarkable results, as evidenced by her impressive collection of first prizes won at international music competitions.

In her quest for musical excellence, Lena regularly participates in music courses both in Brescia, Italy, where she honed her skills under the guidance of esteemed teachers, and in Łańcut, Poland, at the International Music Courses. These inspiring experiences allow her to grow artistically and broaden her musical horizons.

Her undeniable talent has been recognized in numerous prestigious competitions, including first places at the XIII Competition City of Philadelphia in Italy, the International Chamber Music Competition in Bydgoszcz, and the X Chamber Music Tournament in Three Stages for students of music schools. At the latter, she achieved the Grand Prix.

However, her accomplishments do not end there. Lena has also gained recognition as a laureate of the Golden Classical Music Awards, which granted her the exceptional opportunity to perform at the prestigious Carnegie Hall. This remarkable achievement not only attests to her superb skills but also highlights her artistic uniqueness.

In her free time, Lena indulges in other artistic pursuits. She enjoys reading, painting, and honing her piano skills. These additional endeavors further enhance her creativity and enrich her artistic persona.

Lena Maciag is a promising young artist whose future in the world of music is exceptionally bright and full of promise. Her talent, dedication, and versatility form the foundation of her success and captivate the attention of both critics and audiences.
