

Since the age of 8, Nathan has fallen in love with the piano and has been enchanted by the timeless beauty of classical piano music. His journey with the piano has been one of joy and discovery as he explores the rich tapestry of musical expression that spans centuries of artistic brilliance. His diligence and enthusiasm shown when in the opportunity to tackle new and exhilarating pieces that stretch his technical skill and artistic sensibility.

Nathan is also a dedicated student, excelling in his studies at a public high school in Orlando, Florida. His favorite subjects are chemistry and biology. He approaches his academic pursuits with the same diligence that he brings to his piano practice, finding inspiration and fulfillment in both the scientific and artistic realms.

Nathan remains committed to growth, learning, and self-discovery through the journey of classical music. With each piece he learned and mastered, he deepened his understanding of the power of music that lifted and inspired many others.
